NO DECISION FOR SEVERAL DAYS

Permanency of Injunction Against City, Issue

LOW ASKS $2.50

Amendment Would Set Discount Rate at $2.25

When the injunction suit of the People's Gas company vs. the City of Port Arthur came before Federal Judge W. Lee Estes in Beaumont this morning for hearing, it was referred to a master in chancery in a lower court, Judge Leon Sonfield being appointed as the master to hear the evidence in the litigation. When the evidence is all submitted, Judge Sonfield will submit a written opinion of the case to Federal Judge Estes. Final arguments then will be heard before Judge Estes.

It is understood it will be several days before any decision in the litigation will be handed down.

Long Fought Issue

The hearing being conducted by the master in chancery is to determine whether to make permanent a temporary injunction now in effect against the gas company. In this connection it was brought out this morning that Manager F. Y. Low of the Peoples Gas company filed an amendment to the company's original petition for injunction several days ago, requesting the court to restrain Port Arthur from placing in effect the $1.90 rate, and praying the federal court to amend the rate to read $2.50, with a discount rate of $2.25.

The hearing will probably consume the greater part of today and may extend over in tomorrow, it was believed shortly after noon today.

Principals at Hearing

Manager Low of the gas company, Mayor Pink Logan and City Attorney V. J. Westmore were among those present at the hearing of the case today.

It has already been indicated that the litigation will be hard fought, and while the city will make an effort to make the lower rate, the gas company will make a strong fight for the $2.50 rate.

Change is Contemplated, Mayor Logan Says

The hours of the daily city commission meeting may be changed from 4 o'clock in the afternoon to some morning hour after the new terms of the city officers begin, it was intimated in commission meeting yesterday afternoon when the subject was brought for discussion.

Waded in Favor

Commissioner R. A. Wade let it be known this morning that he was heavily in favor of changing the meeting hour of the commission portion of the day, while Commissioner H. W. Foy, although intimating that he favored the hours of the commission meeting being changed, would not say what his attitude was when the matter is definitely passed upon.

Mayor Logan has intimated at various times in the past that "it might be well to change the meeting hours of the commission from the afternoon to the forenoon."

Change Contemplated

Commission has been convening in the afternoons here for the greater part of the past four years. Prior to that time, the daily sessions were held in the forenoon.

Mayor Logan let it be known yesterday afternoon that "such a change is being contemplated," but announced at the same time that he had no official statements to make in connection with the proposed change.

In the event the hours of the commission conference are changed in any respect, the meetings will be moved from 4 o'clock to 11 a. m.

Refuses to Go Through Ceremony to British Naval Officer; Denies His Parents Broke Match

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Nancy Hoyt had the courage to follow her heart and defy the conventions, even at the risk of shocking the high social circles in which she lived. When she found she did not love the man whom she was engaged, she refused to go through with her wedding to him.

Indefinitely Postponed

That, according to close friends of the beautiful Washington debutante and social favorite, was the real reason Miss Hoyt's wedding to Lieutenant F. W. Wilson-Clarke, of the British navy, was "indefinitely postponed" yesterday within a few hours of the time set for the ceremony.

Miss Hoyt's closest friends today were applauding her for her courage which she mustered at the eleventh hour while the guests were assembling and all arrangements for a brilliant international society wedding had been completed.

Denies Report

They said there was no truth in reports that Lieutenant Clarke's parents broke off the match because the bride had been betrothed to the element in 1910 of Miss Hoyt's sister, Mrs. Elmer Hoyt, of Hickory, W. Va.

Miss Hoyt today was in seclusion with a physician attending her. The "serious illness" which her mother gave as the reason for postponement of the wedding was real and not feigned, Miss Hoyt's friends said.

The young woman was described as near a nervous breakdown as the result of her mental struggle and her final decision to break off an engagement when she found her affections for the dashing young British naval officer and sportsman was not strong enough to enable her to marry him.

Legion to Sponsor Memorial Day Exercises May 30

Memorial Day services in honor of the nation's soldier dead will be conducted in Port Arthur the afternoon of May 30.

The program for observance of Memorial Day is as follows:

At 4 p. m., May 30, the procession, headed by the high school band, will form at the Kansas City Southern depot and march out Procter street to Lions Park. In the line of march will be Boy Scouts, ex-servicemen, Red Cross nurses, fraternal, civic and religious organizations, and others.

The program allows 45 minutes for the procession to reach the park, when the Memorial Day services will be held, opened an invocation by Rev. William Oeschger, pastor of the First Christian church.

Captain A. A. Nicholson will deliver the Memorial Day address, followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. J. E. Granier, accompanied by A. M. Culpeper. Memorial rituals then will be read by officers in posts of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish War veterans and Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Old time songs, sung by between 300 and 400 school children, all dressed in white, ending with "Taps," will bring the services at the park to a close, and the ex-servicemen will then proceed to the cemeteries to decorate the graves of the soldier dead.

A committee to arrange for flowers and transportation to the cemeteries was appointed Wednesday night. The Legionnaires named on this committee are A. B. Schneider and R. E. Hill.

HARDING FLAYS 'SELFISH' BLOCS

Says He'll Sacrifice Self to Keep America Whole

FACTIONISM FATAL

President Draws Text From Words of Hamilton

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Declaring that "no nation will survive where factionalism is endured," President Harding today threw down the gauntlet to all blocs or groups "which seek to promote this or that interest without regard to common weal."

Offers Self as Sacrifice

In flaying factionalism the president announced his intention of making any political sacrifices necessary to keep the country "as wholeheartedly by Americans as in the immortal beginning."

The president drew his text from the words of Alexander Hamilton, first secretary of the treasury, at the unveiling of whose statue on the south porch of the treasury the president spoke.

"Can any student of our times in America or the world doubt for a moment that factionalism is developing as never before?" asked Mr. Harding. "We have our factions that seek to promote this or that interest without regard to the relationship to others and without regard to the common weal."

"Fatal," Says President

"We have the factions of hatred, prejudice and violence. We have our conditions which would invade the constitutional rights of other or subvert the constitution itself. We have our factions challenging both civil and religious liberty, and without them both made everlastingly secure there can be no real human liberty."

"We have the fatal factionalism which contemplates obstruction to the execution of the laws."

"No nation will survive where this factionalism is endured."

Hamilton and Washington issued the same solemn warning, the president said. He declared that Hamilton's conception was that federal influence would crush out factions.

"If we will carry on," the president continued, "disunifying the nation of which Hamilton dreamed; if we will maintain the national viewpoint and emphasize the intertwined intimacy of (Turn to Page 2 Column 1)

HUSBAND DIES IN FAMILY ROW

Note in Pocket Found By Wife Has Fatal Sequel

By United Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., May 17.—A wife's rumormongering in her husband's pocket today was believed by authorities to have caused the death of E. B. Myne, 34, merchant at Beaumont, La.

Myne was shot and killed when he entered a room in his home late yesterday. His wife has been placed in jail in connection with the case, pending a preliminary hearing.

According to reports from authorities at Beaumont, Myne entered his wife's room and found her reading to a neighbor a note she found in his pocket.

Mrs. Myne immediately accused her husband of infidelity, the reports said, and a struggle followed, ending in the fatal wounding of the merchant.

The woman has been confined to her room for some time with a broken leg, it was said.

Mrs. Womack Has Rag Doll 72 Years Old

Port Arthur goes Defiance, Ohio, one better.

Nine-year-old Marion Hanna of Defiance, has a doll 45 years old, which formerly belonged to her mother, Mrs. Hanna.

But Mrs. M. S. Womack of 2511 Sixth street has in her possession a doll of 72 summers, which was made by an aunt in Grimes county, Texas, in 1851 for her sister, Little Janie Forrester.

"It is just a little rag doll, dressed in a lavender dress, trimmed with lavender braid, which she has worn exclusively these many years," says Mrs. Womack. "Of course, her dress is somewhat out of style. She is still beautiful of countenance, though she shows the ravages of time as all good rag dolls do. There's nothing of the flapper about her."

The doll often has been exhibited in the Cotton Palace at Waco, according to Mrs. Womack. It is stuffed with homegrown cotton, she said.

"We're figuring now on having the bridge operating by June 1, but of course there's no telling when the material shipments will arrive," Commissioner Wade said.

Some small pieces of finishing apparatus are what we have to get before the work can go on," he said.

CONSIDERING USE AS COMMUNITY CENTER FOR ALL

Ways and Means Committee Named

IS BEAUTY SITE

Problems Incident to Acquisition Being Studied

A community recreation and club center, planned to be as modern and as well equipped as any in the country, and dedicated to the memory of America's soldier dead, is proposed by the Rudolph Lambert Post, American Legion, for Port Arthur.

Legionnaires are looking toward the old Gates' home, at Griffing, valued with its spacious landscaping acres at $100,000, as the prospective site for the community center, and are considering the possibility of providing ways and means for renovating and remodeling the place into a recreation and club center.

Now Under Advisement

This is the word given out today by Legion officials, following a meeting Wednesday night when the estate of Griffing was taken under advisement by members of the Rudolph Lambert Post, and a committee, headed by W. J. Burch, appointed to investigate the feasibility of Legionnaires acquiring this property and fitting it out as the proposed community center.

While the Legion is sponsoring the proposed community center, officials stressed the fact today that Legionnaires will not be selfish in the use of its facilities, but will throw open the club house and grounds for use by the entire community. Among the recreational features planned in connection with the proposed community center are tennis courts, basketball courts, a swimming pool, library, writing rooms and parlors for entertainments, officials said.

Definite Report Soon

"Nothing definite on the Griffing estate as the community recreational center the Legion plans for Port Arthur has been worked out," Burch said today. "I expect to call a meeting of the committee early next week, when we will go into every detail of using the Griffing estate, and after that meeting we are expected to be in a position to make a definite report," he said.

Other members of the community center appointed by Guy T. Hattom, post commander, Wednesday night are E. V. Hay, Dr. Frank D. Mabry, J. L. Dunn, and George Root. The post commander and A. B. Schneider, post treasurer, are ex-officio members of the committee.

Two Factors in Consideration

In considering the Griffing estate as the location for the community center, two main obstacles are up to the Legion for solving. One is securing the consent of two-thirds of the property owners in Griffing residential park, each lot holder having 1-85th interest in the property, and the other, financing the job of remodeling and repairing the residence to make it meet the requirements of an ideal club house. The committee is to devise ways and means to obtain and put the club house in shape and equip it, officials said.

Potential membership of the Rudolph Lambert Post is estimated at 1,200 ex-servicemen, which is increasing at Port Arthur grows, post officials said. One of the first things that will have to be done, they say, is in planning for a community center in Port Arthur is to wage an intensive campaign for lining up all ex-servicemen in the city to assist in carrying out the community center plans.

Hurle Fast and Citizens From Texacos

Texacos Slugs Runway in Second, Third and Fourth Frames and Put Game on Ice, Site 3, Knocking City League Leadership

By BILL ARONER

Each dropped the Texacos with four scattered hits yesterday and the Citizens won the encounter, 8 to 3. The contest was called at the end of the fourth frame, when darkness prevented its continuance.

Skipper Ed Aden, in charge of the Texacos, announced in the third inning that the game was being continued under protest, and said he would file his protest at once on the grounds that a player was permitted to substitute for a runner without permission from the two field captains.

The Citizens tromped into the Texas lads with their bats swinging hard yesterday, and Leach added to his own victory by swatting out two clouts during the game that brought his batting average up to 1.000 for the day.

Leach delivered an airtight brand of baseball for the Adenites to solve, and they failed to solve it for any damage. The City hurler chopped down even of those who faced him during the issue, and permitted but two passes to first.

The Islanders went scoreless until the last of the first stanza, when Romero scored on Stevenson's single, and the latter brought in one when Palmer raved for first, on a dropped third strike, Wright overthrowing first base and permitting "Steve" to reach home on the deal.

The Citizens jumped an early lead, in the second and third innings, grab-and-put the game on ice for the day by hitting a total of three runs in each period, and adding to these in the first of the fourth.

For the first score in the second when Draughn singled, and a later one in Leach's single.

Petty, running for Leach, brought in the third run for that stanza when he raved across the counting rubber on 2. Wright's single, Jordan led the batter in the first of the third, and single. Hallett went out at first on a ground ball, Leach walked, and Jordan stole home, and his fast fellow led a single from Petty, scoring Leach.

Bobby Draughn went to first when Leach fumbled, and Leach drove in Petty with another single, bringing his batting average for the day to the 1.000 per cent mark. Draughn was caught in a run-down when Perkins delivered a fielder's choice, and A. Wright retired the side with a strikeout.

In the fourth frame, the Citizens put the game on ice for the occasion with a couple more, and the game was over. Morgan walked, and went to second when the pitcher, took his bow with the ball in his possession. Jordan gained first when Leach massed up another one, and Morgan scored. Jordan scored when Rodriguez sacked one from H. Wright, and Bennett and Petty retired the side with outs.

The Citizens found Foster in the early stages of the contest, and the three runs they located in the first and second chased him from the mound. He was relieved by "Big Joe" Stevenson, who met a similar fate, and the Citizens continued their running spree, coupling their hits with errors to win the clash.

It was announced during the melee that the Gulf and the Texacos will take the field this afternoon, instead of the Citizens and the Islanders, they having agreed to transfer their game to Friday.

Two more good games await the fans this week, when these four clubs tangle up again, and the chances are exciting developments will turn up for the encounters.

Leach handled the Texacos with ease yesterday, and looked good all the way. He received support throughout the issue, and the Citizens closed up the gaps all over the field. The victory places the Gulf and the City tied again for first-run honors, and only the remaining issues to be settled this week can materially affect the standings of the clubs. If the Gulf loses today, the race will be headed by the Citizens; both these clubs have been waging a strong battle for superiority since the opening day, and when they tangle for their first and only time since the schedule was formally opened, the Citizens clipped off the victory after one of the snappiest affairs witnessed at Lakeshore.

They get another whack at each other next week, but meanwhile the contest for supremacy goes on this week with considerable excitement.

France Will Present Youngest Team in Davis Cup Tennis Matches

Shorts—FRANCE WILL with out THE tennis team that will represent France in Davis cup play this year will be the youngest combination in the famous international matches. Two of the players, certain to be selected are Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra. The other member of the team is still in doubt, but he will be one of the younger players. Borotra, who will be the veteran of the trio, is only 23 years old. However, he is a seasoned veteran and one of the most brilliant players in France. Cochet, who made such an impressive showing in the states last year, has just passed the 20-year-old mark. The French look for Cochet to be one of the stars of the coming matches. While the official designation of the team will not be made until April 17, it is a certainty that Borotra will be selected.

PIRATE, GIANT RACE FOR FLAG

National League Fight Simmers to Two Clubs

NEW YORK, May 17.—With the most important of the inter-sectional battles over, the National League season looks like a two-club affair between the Giants and the Pirates. The American League also assumes the proportions of being a Detroit-New York fight for the honors.

The showing that the Giants made against the Pirates, the strongest club they have faced this season, and the fine form the Yankees exhibited against the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers, has made them more than probable pennant winners.

From now until October is a long stretch, and most anything can happen in that time to wreck a team's pennant chances. It's a cliché that the Yankees cannot afford to have a bad accident or any illness, as Miller Huggins has only one utility infielder and Mike McNair is not strong enough to go through a stiff pennant fight.

The Giants have a great ball club. They look invincible when they are behind good pitching, but they are not always behind good pitching. McQuinn and Neff are the only reliable pitchers McQuinn has at his disposal, and Neff is erratic, either awfully good or terribly bad.

Strong as they are, the Giants will have to keep moving, because the Pirates are a great ball club, and the Cincinnati Reds who moved in on the Giants today, may get going at any time. The lags is there, and Pet Morin is one to get it out eventually.

The St. Louis Cardinals so far this season have been a disappointment. Branch Rickey has a tremendous attack, but the greatest bunch of three inning pitchers in baseball. He has no one hurler that is a bet to finish a game when he goes in.

By Cobb is up against the same proposition but not as badly as Rickey. Detroit has the most powerful offense in baseball but lacks pitchers in numbers to make them a favorite over the Yankees. Cobb is getting his best work now from veteran arms, and they may fade in July.

The Browns are out of it without George Sisler and the White Sox are the most unusual bust of the season. The Cleveland Indians were playing a little over their heads, and the Philadelphia Athletics will have to be watched all the way.

It will not be a good thing for baseball to have another world's series in New York but its heading that way.

Bush First Manager Chased From Game In Big Show Ball

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Donie Bush, newest of the major league managers, enjoys the distinction, if it may be so classed, of being the first manager to be chased.

In the second game of the recent series with Philadelphia, which ended in a 10 to 10, twelve-inning tie, Bush was given the air. It so happens that Umpire Holmes, one of President Johnson's new arbiters, pointed the way to the exit.

It all happened in the twelfth inning over one called ball, with two out, a runner on second and Washington trailing by a run. The Athletics having scored in the first half.

With Goslin up and the count three balls and no strike, Umpire Holmes called the next pitch a strike. Goslin thought it was high and kicked. The moment he protested, Manager Bush, who was coaching at third, rushed to the plate.

Umpire Holmes kept him going to the club house. Failure to call the pitch a ball, which would have walked Goslin, proved a good break for Washington, as he hit the next pitch for a long fly to center field which was muffed, sending the tying run over the plate.

The game was called on account of darkness at the close of the inning.

TEXACOS PLAY CROWLEY NINE

City League Squad Invades Field for 2 Games

BY VAN ANDRUS
The Port Arthur Texaco Stars invade Louisiana, pitching camp in Crowley. "The Rice City of America," for a pair of encounters, Saturday and Sunday.

The Crowley team is heralded as being a fast, snappy contingent. They have annexed a string of victories to their credit that any team would be proud to possess. This string includes victories over Opelousas and New Iberia.

They have secured a number of moundmen who are noted for their air tight hurling, among them being Woods, formerly of the Lake Charles club, Martin and Ryan, LeBlanc, Bondeaux, Gilbo, and Wilder, lead the batting for the Louisiana Club. With such an array of players it is not difficult to understand why the Crowley Club has turned in such a goodly number of wins.

Manager L. A. Aden, of the Stars, has not as yet definitely decided who will get the appointments for the game. Such players as Foster, Stephenson, Kring, Newman, and the indomitable Jimmy Bell will provide a battery which doubtless will be able to cope very effectively with the Louisiana problem.

The Adenites are all set for their trip to Crowley and if everything is bright, doubtless the Stars will shine.

SHREVEPORT IN MOLE ON GAME IN BEAUMONT

Townsend Huris Route to Exporter Victory

Special to the News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, May 17.—The Exporters finished a hectic affair here yesterday on top of another issue, and incidentally yanked themselves to the top of the "won an almost" standings when they took the Islanders into camp again, 12 to 5.

Townsend hurled the entire route for the Islanders and dropped the Shreveport nine with 13 hits—100 scattered to win for them, despite the fact that they took the Islanders into camp again, 12 to 5.

Salt Will Keep Grease From Smoking—Advertising Makes Business Grow

MARKETS

WALL STREET JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, May 17.—Trading in the stock market today was exceedingly listless, and the volume of business was the least in many months. The market was characterized by a number of favorable developments, including dividend payments by two concerns. The market indications recently have led to the conclusion that the market is not buying stocks but is waiting for a change. An outside view, the head of a large manufacturing corporation, remarks, "I have never seen a stock market where earnings of purely professional activity as has the recent stock market. This probably accounts for the weakness of the last week. At the same time the impression is growing that a slight indication of company buying may prove a boost for business in the long run and stocks already have discounted this possibility."

THE GUMPS—ANSWERING THE CALL OF THE WILD

AN UNUSUAL MAN TOOK THE STUNNING FISH FROM THE MARKET. HE WAS FOLLOWING HIM IN HIS OWN MIND. ON HIS LAST TRIP TO THE MOUNTAINS, HE LIFTED A LOT OF FISH OUT OF THEIR MISERY. HE WAS THE LATEST SCIENTIFIC METHOD OF FISHING. HE SAID A COUPLE OF BOATLOADS OF FISH FROM THE PAGES OF STARVATION.

HEAVE ONE OF YOUR LOCAL PAUL BUCKERS WAKE UP A HORSE AND PASH AROUND THE LAKE. SHOUTING THE GOOD NEWS THAT ANNY GUMP IS COMING—BUT I'M COMING WITH THE SAME BEHEADING FEELING AS A MAN IN A CHICKEN YARD—AND WHEN I GET THROUGH HAULING OUT SOME OF THOSE GASTRATING FISH A WOMAN WILL BE AS SAFE IN YOUR LAKE AS A SHILLING IN THE BANK OF SCOTLAND—AND JUST TELL SOME OF THOSE FEROCIOUS FISH THAT HAVE BEEN SCARING THE BEARS AWAY WHEN THEY COME DOWN TO DRINK THAT WHEN I GET THROUGH WITH THEM THEY WILL BE AFRAID TO SNAP AT A CREAM PUFF.

WHAT THOSE FISH NEED IS A BOMB—A BOMB IN THE BLOOD—I'LL COME UP AND BOMB THEM A LOT OF BOMBS—AFTER I LEAVE ALL A MOTIVE FISH WILL HAVE TO DO WHEN ONE OF THE LITTLE FISH GETS UNHAPPY IS TO JUST SAY ANNY GUMP WILL GET YOU—JUST MENTION MY NAME AND THEY'LL RUN AND HIDE UNDER THE BED.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

"Welcome to Raggy Town in Raggy Land," said Tatters. The Twins stood looking at the Raggy Land, said Tatters. "I'll see little fairy with eyes that nearly popped out of their heads. He had suddenly appeared from nowhere at the edge of the forest, while they were looking down into a hollow stump.

"It's the sooty smudges on your noses that have given you the right to come to Raggy Land," he said. "That stump is the chimney of one of our houses and the ground you are standing on is the roof. Raggy Land is under the ground same as Browneland."

"Thank you for telling us about everything," said Nancy politely. "Are you a Raggy Land?"

"Well I should say so," answered the fairy. "Can't you tell by my clothes? All Raggies wear old ragged things. Would you like to go down into Raggy Land and meet some of my friends? My name is Tatters, Mister Tatters."

"Oh, yes indeed," answered Nick. "But I have a letter to post first. Nancy, you wait here and I'll be back in two minutes."

Away he went to the hickory tree postoffice and gave his letter to Mr. Stamp, the little fairy postman.

While they were waiting, Nancy started to wipe the smudge off her nose with her hands.

"No, don't!" cried Tatters quickly. "If you do, you cannot go to Raggy Land. Only people who have smudges of magic soot are allowed in. Whatever you do, don't wipe the smudge off."

"All right!" answered Nancy. "I'll tell Nick."

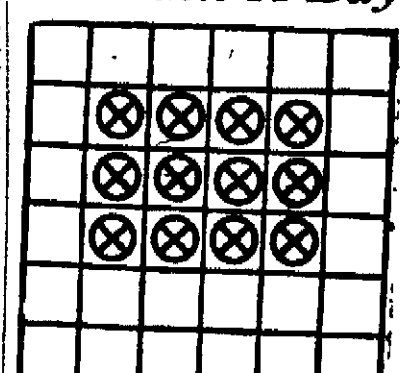

Just then Nick returned.

"Now we're all ready to go," said Tatters. "Just come to the edge of this moss roof and we'll climb down this thick creeper vine. I'll go first and you follow."

Soon they all stood on a queer little street of a queer little town.

"Welcome to Raggy Town in Raggy Land," said Tatters.

A Puzzle A Day

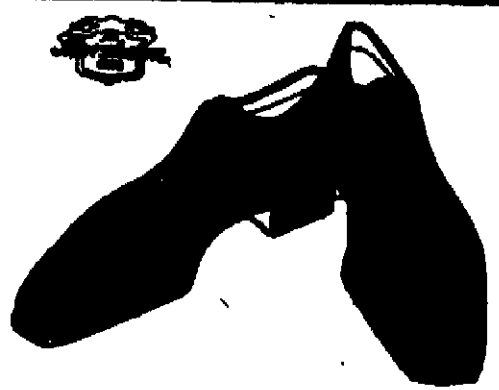

The diagram shown above represents a board of thirty six squares, with twelve counters on checkers on the board. The problem is to rearrange the twelve counters so that each row on the board horizontal, vertical and diagonal, contains just two counters. Can you do it? (There are six vertical, six horizontal and two diagonal rows.)

Yesterday's answer: YACURRYCHICURYME. The letters shown above may be read as follows: "Too wise you are, too wise you be, I see you are too wise for me."

FLEATED SKIRTS

The knife pleated skirt, of white crepe de chine is to be one of the most popular pieces in the summer wardrobe. With a sweater, cutie or overblouse it forms an attractive costume.

Horse power is no good without "Welcome to Raggy Town in Raggy Land."

DEAD MAN AT TRAIN THROTTLE

Autopsy Reveals Cause of Ohio Smash

LIMA, Ohio, May 17.—A dead man was at the throttle when the east-bound Lake Erie and Western passenger train last night crashed head-on with a freight near here, maiming 13 persons, authorities believed today.

A physician's report, following an autopsy on the body of George Bassler, 61, engineer, indicated he died of heart trouble a few minutes before the crash.

P. O. Early, Bassler's fireman who leaped to safety before the uncontrolled passenger crashed with the freight, said his shout of warning was unheeded.

Disregarding an order which he shouted in his right hand to stop at Oakland, Bassler's body swayed with the engine as it sped along at fifty miles an hour.

"I called to him as he passed the Oakland switch," Early said today. "He paid no attention. The next instant we piled up the freight. I am satisfied Bassler, dean of engineers on this line, was dead at the throttle—how long I can't say."

This version of the incident was supported by Mrs. Bassler who said her husband before starting out Wednesday morning had complained of pains in the region of his heart.

Bassler had been with the company 41 years and during that time had never overlooked or misinterpreted an order, railroad officials said.

All activities, independent, where none may permanently prosper without a prosperous whole, if we will throttle the false cry of class, where none need exist, in the beckoning American opportunity; if we will be as hopelessly American as we wholeheartedly American as they were in the immortal beginning, the future is secure.

"These men must do no matter what political entities are made in the government."

Stressing Hamilton's rugged honesty, Mr. Harding declared that honesty will cure ten thousand ills of today.

"Honesty among nations will dissolve their differences, so that new and lasting friendships may be bound by the ties of fraternity and mutual trust," he said. "Honesty in politics will reveal misapprehension and honest in public service everywhere will diminish public waste and extravagance."

The president gave out of the way of leadership he believes necessary to crush factionalism in calibrating the leadership of Hamilton. Hamilton he said, cared little for "temporal popular favor" but appeared to that intelligent public opinion which must clear the way of an abiding democracy.

"The world needs that type of leadership today," he said.

American Scientists Put New Worlds on the Map

Monster Instrument, Delicate As a Watch, Measures Diameter of Stars Far in Space

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The restless mind of mankind is steadily probing the uttermost depths of space, pushing back the boundaries of the universe, triumphing over immeasurable distances, to bring to a towering world news of other stars than our own.

Daily, at the Mt. Wilson Cal. observatory, according to reports reaching the Carnegie Institution of Washington, scientists are heading into a mystic sea of mathematics, etherial vibrations, light waves, and spectroscopic and emerge again with amazing revelations of worlds beyond the world that fall from their lips like the pronouncements of destiny.

The newest wrinkle for probing the boundless depths of space invented by the scientists of Mt. Wilson is a machine for measuring the diameters of stars without the use of a telescope.

A complicated device of mirrors, steel beams, and railroad tracks, the instrument is so large and so delicate that instead of being moved, it is fixed to the earth, and a house on wheels moves back and forth over it to shift it when not in use.

The device is an enormous amplification of the instrument by which Professor A. A. B. Michelson measured the diameter of Betelgeuse, until recently the largest star measured, and by which Dr. G. F. Pease obtained the measurements of Antares, which, although Betelgeuse, and Antares, which fall slightly short of Betelgeuse's colossal girth.

Has Four Mirrors

The device consists of four mirrors set along a steel beam 75 feet long, two of them fixed, the other two movable with the aid of screws of an indelible fineness of adjustment enabling the mirrors to be set within a thousandth of an inch of a desired position.

Beneath the beam are lenses which gather the reflected beams of light and shut them into the delicate mechanisms of the interferometer which reveal to observing scientists the contours of the light rays that give them the clues to the measurements of the stars.

The new instrument was constructed to enable more refined measurements than Michelson's 20-foot beam interferometer, attached to the 100-foot telescope at Mt. Wilson, permitted.

As is usually the case in all new inventions, their coming prevents accuracy in dealing with small subjects. Michelson's famed interferometer was no exception. He could measure a star 300,000,000 miles in diameter, but not 100,000,000, the advantage of the new instrument lies in its ability to measure the diameter of stars.

The latest measurements of giant stars is being done by other men than Michelson, yet it is he who built the foundations upon which they are erecting a new scientific edifice.

Michelson will tell you that it was not he that first chalked Betelgeuse's diameter on a yardstick. It was a brother scientist at Mount Wilson, Cal. He came to the observatory, set up his instruments, explained what he was after and how to get it and went away, leaving the actual measurement to others.

DRY ZONE ON MEX. BORDER

Notorious Juarez May Be Tightly Closed

EL PASO, Texas, May 17.—Juarez, notorious Mexican border town opposite here, may be "closed tight" for the sake of American recognition of Mexico.

President Obregon of the southern young has asked governors of Mexican border states to decree the establishment of a 40 or 50 mile dry zone, extending from the international line into Mexico, according to reports here.

Juarez cafe owners are worried. Reports from the other border towns on the Mexican side that have enjoyed American tourist trade since the United States went dry indicate business men in those places are also perturbed over the reports.

Authorities in Juarez declare they have no official information.

Meanwhile, Juarez business interests are reported investigating practicability of establishing another "dry" zone beyond the dry zone, if Juarez and other border towns are made dry.

Leading business men of the border town have taken options on land at the edge of the suggested "Mexican desert," according to rumors. If the dry zone is proclaimed, it is proposed that the state of Chihuahua shall build a paved highway to a point south of Tierra Blanca, where the new wet city would be built. A bus line would put in for the benefit of thirsty Americans, it was stated.

Steps are already being taken at some points to prohibit gambling. The Americans and other foreigners who cross to Mexico to gamble or engage in any sort of vice will be deported, according to announcement made at Brownsville, Texas, by Mexican Consul Alonso Ulloa.

"The Mexican government is sincere in its efforts to suppress gambling," Ulloa is quoted, "and the Federal government is determined to drive out foreigners who enter to vice."

Parent Thanks Local People for Aid Given Dead Son in Illness

The body of Harold Kuku, 22, who died in a local sanitarium Monday following an acute stroke of heart trouble, was shipped to his home in Albany, Oregon, last night, accompanied by his father, J. A. Kuku, who arrived here from Albany yesterday at noon.

Mr. Kuku, prior to his departure, expressed his sincere appreciation to the many friends and acquaintances, and especially to Mr. and Mrs. A. A. B. Michelson, noted savant, and measure of the giant star Betelgeuse.

Yet Michelson admits that when he started out to put a ruler on the sun or space he did it just for fun, without any real hope that he would succeed.

From his earliest student days in Paris, where he studied his professors by declaring that he had actually added light to light and obtained darkness in accordance with a known physical principle, that later proved the foundation of his fame, Michelson pursued his hobby "just for fun."

What is he? He is a physicist. His steady march to fame has been along the lines of devising methods of forcing the universe to give up its secrets but leaving their application to the technicians of the astronomical profession.

Michelson will tell you that it was not he that first chalked Betelgeuse's diameter on a yardstick. It was a brother scientist at Mount Wilson, Cal. Bryan Hangs On As Prospective Moderator; Seeks a Safe Election

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 17.—Selection of a moderator for the coming year held the center of interest among all commissioners to the 135th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States as the assembly formerly convened today.

William J. Bryan still stood out as the most discussed candidate. Some of Bryan's friends believe he does not want to be formally presented as a candidate unless he is certain that the election will be without opposition.

HURLS GAUNTLET AT PRO ENEMIES

Harding Demands 100 Per Cent Enforcement

WASHINGTON, May 17.—President Harding has issued the boldest and most sweeping challenge to the foes of national prohibition they have yet received. He believes they will not dare accept the issue. If they do, he is confident they will be swept to defeat under a wave of public opinion which will at the same time carry prohibition enforcement toward the goal Mr. Harding has set for it—100 per cent enforcement and a bone dry nation.

The Issue

The president wrote his letter to Wesley Wait, of Newburgh, N. Y., with a full appreciation of what he was doing. He simply stated the issue involved in New York's repeal of its state enforcement code as he sees it. To Mr. Harding, that issue is: Shall federal enforcement of a law and a constitutional amendment adopted after fifty years of consideration and debate be endangered by the revival of the outworn doctrine of the sovereignty of the individual states?

The difference between Mr. Harding and states rights advocates is that he regards the 18th amendment and the Volstead law as a unit, one and inseparable. They regard the 18th amendment as one thing and the machinery for its enforcement as another.

Constitution Attacked

If Mr. Harding's view about the unity of the two measures is right, he has put the states rights enemies of prohibition in the position of attacking the federal constitution. He believes the country will agree with him that attempts by the states to impede with enforcement by putting the entire burden of it upon the federal government is an attempt to subvert the constitution

King Ben's Girl-Detective Tells Story of Ruler's Life of Regal Splendor at Shiloh

RACE BETWEEN SILKS AND RAGS

King Primed by Sisters, Fed on Golden Plates

BY J. L. O'SULLIVAN
Union Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1923, By United Press)
St. JOSEPH, Mich., May 17.—Benjamin Parnell, the man who would be king, ruled with regal pomp and splendor in Shiloh Palace of the House of David.

The story of life in this alleged twentieth century seraglio was given to the United Press by a 20 year old girl, Lavina Johnson Henger, who said she had been a "spotter" and detective, reporting directly to the king on indiscretions of his flock.

Life of Splendor
Surrounded by his harem of "virgins," the "seventh angel" who is being investigated by Judge Harry Dingeman's "one-man" grand jury, lived a life of luxurious ease and splendor in this Michigan "valley of the kings."

Food was served to the modern sultan, who maintained his corps of maidens long after the abolition of the Turkish ruler's nest, on plates of gold.

Rare liquors were poured to suit his moods and tastes in glistening goblets studded with emeralds and rubies, by the young girl attendants. Trained hula hula dancers furnished entertainment at his bidding.

Misc in Waiting
His long grey beard was combed and primed by a maid in waiting. His bath was prepared, clothes carefully arranged and every want anticipated by the score of select "sisters" who vied with each other for the honor of administering to the personal wants of the self-styled "brother of Jesus Christ."

The chosen Shiloh girls, arrayed in the finest silks while their less fortunate "sisters" in the colony were allowed only roughest cotton clothes of plainest styles, maintained the royal apartment.

The king's rooms were furnished with rich tapestries and with luxurious couches and divans. Valuable paintings graced the walls. A thousand workers from every walk of life from preaching to penning selling furnished the laundries for the upkeep of this retinue.

Laurels and Thorns
Lavina Johnson Henger, whose chief ambition in her four years in the colony was to be elevated to a position of lady in waiting upon Benjamin, only to find the laurels concealing a crown of thorns upon attainment, revealed for the first time the intimate details of the life of Benjamin.

"Benjamin seldom slept at night," Lavina said. "There was always a light on in his room. He said he did his work then, preparing his writings and prophecies. He slept in the daytime. The spirits were abroad in the night time and then would inspire his works, he said."

"Twenty-three girls lived in Shiloh. They were the favored of the flock. They had nothing to do but care for Benjamin. No other men lived in the apartment. Queen Mary, the king's wife, even lived in a building far separated from that of her husband."

Comony Worked Hard
"All other members of the colony worked hard, were given poor food and insufficient clothing."

"While I was in Mary's retinue, I acted as a spotter for Benjamin. I was forced to work in the restaurant and do other hard labor."

"Benjamin's girls arose early, when a general bell was sounded, to be prepared for his appearance. Breakfast, consisting of the choicest fruits and carefully selected and prepared food, was ready-served to the king in bed, if he desired."

"While Benjamin and his virgins were satisfying their appetites with the best of foods, the other members of the colony were given only the plainest victuals."

"They never had eggs, butter and cream. Of course none in the entire family ate meat."

"The king seldom appeared on the grounds except on state occasions. He worked through handpicked assistants. When he did appear he was always surrounded by a bevy of beautiful girls. He rode with them in a glass enclosed car upon the miniature railroad to various parts of the estate."

Religious Services Few
"All the girls sought the honor of caring for Benjamin's room, of arranging his room and helping him with his toilet."

"Religious services and ceremonies were few. On the last Friday of each month, all the brothers and sisters more than 12 years of age were summoned to the assembly hall to hear Benjamin preach. He spoke plainly, especially on the doctrines which provide that women must lead virgin lives and the men must keep a pledge of celibacy."

"On various occasions decreed by Benjamin the 'cleansing fountain' ceremony was held to 'purify the blood' of the elect. There was no ceremony attached. We simply wrote out confessions of our misdeeds, filed through an assembly hall and dropped papers bearing our signatures into a large wastebasket. These were taken to Benjamin. Although he declared he never read them I know he did because of the matters he called to my attention which he could not possibly have known of otherwise."

Lavina said that in order to further "test the faith and 'cleansing the blood,'" of Shiloh girls, Benjamin made strange proposals as his fancy suited. He attempted to test Lavina's faith while she was working in a Shiloh pantry, the girl testified before the grand jury investigating the cult, but she rebelled and escaped.

Hypnotic Eye
"Benjamin had a small hypnotic eye and is so sympathetic in his manner that it is hard to resist him. I can easily understand how a weaker-willed girl could be easily misled," she said.

"After in tangle in the test of Lavina she said Benjamin invited her to his sleeping room to inspect a new and wonderful painting which he had just purchased."

"A conspiracy of silence" regarding the actions of Benjamin exists even among the cult itself, Lavina said after unfolding her story that reveals the tales of the Arabian Nights and the legends of the courts of Babylon. "I even did not tell my own brother of my experience until nearly a year later," she said.

"The Shiloh girls never discuss Benjamin even among themselves. Benjamin didn't want his girls to wear black. In fact all black clothes were positively forbidden at the colony."

"He used to tell the Devil lives in black."

The Prophecy
"Pink was also a forbidden color until some of the favorite Shiloh girls obtained some pink silk with which they intended to make waist. Benjamin scolded them, saying 'pink is a bad color.' However, he finally suggested that the girls make the pink goods into lingerie."

Miss Henger, who left the colony within the last few weeks since the investigation started, declared that despite the fact Benjamin has been missing since January 1 the great majority of the flock still have faith in him.

"The House of David looks prophetic that Benjamin shall be 'chased like a fox and run into a hole,' but that he will return and face his accusers."

"The great hope which inspired the 1,000 members of the colony is that they shall live forever in the flesh and never experience death. Benjamin says he will give them the tree of life and they shall be among the chosen twelve tribes of Israel, consisting of 111,000 who shall not perish from the earth."

T. R. Or Nobody, Says This Man Who Refused Ballot for Long Time

JAMES C. TWEEDY

By NEA Service
BOONVILLE, Ind., May 17.—For 11 years, James C. Tweedy, 79, Civil War veteran, has remained away from the polls. And thereby hangs a tale.

Teddy Roosevelt had no more enthusiastic follower than Tweedy. Through all the campaigns of the big stick holder, Tweedy was to be found loyally upholding Rooseveltian policies.

Then came 1912 and the Roosevelt bolt from the G. O. P. and the formation of a Bull Moose party with Teddy as its leader. Tweedy has always been a strong party man, but his admiration for Roosevelt overwhelmed that for his party, and he "bolted" too.

Both went down to defeat, repudiated by the people.

Roosevelt has passed away and

Tweedy swore he never would go to the polls again, disappointed that the voters should ignore his ideal.

He has kept his promise.

"Roosevelt was my idea of a real man and a real president," Tweedy says, when asked why he has kept his promise and stayed away from the polls. "When the people defeated Roosevelt they made a mistake, and I shall never vote again."

"Perhaps I am wrong. But sometimes it seems that I can hear Teddy saying: 'Bully for you' and I am reassured."

TAKE-ALL MATCH

SPOKANE, Wash., May 17.—Imagine a champion of the ring proposing a match with a logical contender on a winner-take-all basis.

Yet this is exactly what Ralph Greenleaf, youthful pocket billiard champ, proposes to do when he re-enters from the effects of the strenuous tour of the Pacific coast, which he has just completed. Repeated crises of Frank Taberski, former pocket billiard champion, to a match are bearing fruit.

Greenleaf says he will make Taberski a proposition to play under practically any terms Taberski demands, save only that the play be on a winner-take-all basis.

"If Taberski is sincere, this winner-take-all proposition will interest him," says Greenleaf. "If he is merely talking, he will ignore it as he has ignored all previous attempts to bring about a meeting between us, and I will ignore him henceforth."

SEES THROUGH PLATE OF STEEL

Mysterious Power of Vision Reported

MADRID, Spain, May 17.—The ability to read through metal plates is not peculiar to the son of the Marquis de Santa Clara, who demonstrated his powers at court the other day. It appears many persons have the same faculty.

However, in the son of the marquis it has been developed to a high degree by his father, a scientist who has been studying the physical effects of hypnosis. Consequently, his demonstrations before King Alfonso, Queen Victoria, Dowager Queen Maria, and other specialists and the royal court, has aroused great interest. Count Amelio Gimeno, former minister of foreign affairs, has laid the phenomenon before the Spanish academy of science.

Tested Many Subjects

Marquis de Santa Clara has tested hundreds of subjects and found women more likely than men to have the faculty of vision through opaque objects. He found this ability present naturally on such a high degree in one 18-year old girl that he could read unopened letters handed her at random from mail first delivered at his desk by the postman.

The Marquis' experiments have been just as successful with people in a state of alert hypersensitiveness, known technically as "vigil." This occurs when they are not hypnotized quite sufficiently to put them to sleep. In this condition they see with their eyes as usual, rather than form visions with their minds.

According to the Spanish scientist, it seems probable that objects ordinarily classed as non-transparent, actually are faintly transparent for some of the associated light rays. There is, therefore, enough light stimulating the eye to form an image of what is on the other side.

The transparency of the object depends on the nature of the material, the ability to see through it varies in the same person according to his state of mental repose.

Study Marquis' Discovery

The Marquis' son, for instance, sees easily through sheets of metal a quarter of an inch thick. But he has difficulty with wood, leather and stone, and he is blocked completely by porcelain, marble, colored glass and paper. A sealed letter would, therefore, be safe from him, but would be easy reading for the girl already referred to.

A commission has been appointed by the Spanish academy to study the Marquis' discovery. The Marquis will have his son and various other sensitive subjects again demonstrate their ability to read newspaper clippings torn at random from anywhere in a pile of papers and slipped into any metal box. No one present will even be allowed to read the clippings first. The son also will tell the time by a closed watch that has been reset by spinning the hands about at random.

DIVORCE

The English are alarmed because they have 3,164 suits for divorce filed in one year. Shucks! Here in America we have that many divorces every 11 days, and our population is less than three times as many as England's. Every time there are nine marriages in our country there's one divorce—about a million marriages and over 112,000 divorces a year.

From Paris there are rumors that the all black costume has by no means seen its day, and that smart women there are clinging to it and are reviving the short skirt of a season back.

Son Files Official To Ask Dad Not to Appeal Sentence

DONIPHAN, Mo., May 17.—"I do it for my father's sake," explained (Orb) McKinney when he gave himself up to the sheriff here. McKinney was convicted of killing a neighbor and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. His father was going to appeal to the supreme court, but McKinney escaped when officers were taking him from the court house to the jail.

"I wanted to go home and tell father not to appeal because it would cost too much," he said. "I was willing to serve my term. I swam two rivers and walked through the woods all night getting home. I'm ready to serve my term."

It is harder to sing, "Home, Sweet Home" in a rented house.

YOU CAN'T ALWAYS SOME-TIMES TELL.

Yesterday afternoon a man with long hair and a woolly appearance boarded one of the cars on Travis street.

He had been freely imbibing and besides that bore all the earmarks of a Holy Terror. The car was full of passengers going home to supper and a slight rattle of uneasiness went up and down both rows of seats as the bad man entered.

As soon as he had sized up the people in the car and quite and ineffective citizens, he proclaimed in a loud voice that he was the only man in Texas that could eat glass, drink Prussian acid, play with the catamount or take Giaece-Roman falls with a trolley car just by way of recreation. He gave several whoops, and then called on the passengers to stand up and be pulverized by the worst man south of Ohio.

Everybody looked out of the windows and pretended to be greatly interested in something going on outside.

"Anybody got a wild beast or a buzz saw or a hornet's nest, gentlemen, that I could chew up just by way of a lunch. Can't somebody kick me or say I wrote 'Beautiful Snow' so that I can use him for a door mat?"

One timid woman rang the bell and got off the car, and the conductor got out on the platform and pretended not to hear. In one corner of the car sat a young man who had been quietly reading a newspaper all the while. He was a determined looking fellow with a square jaw and broad shoulders. A druggist who was riding home to supper whispered to the man next to him:

"See that fellow reading the paper? That's Habbit, the best amateur boxer in Houston. He ain't afraid of anything on earth. There ain't anything in the Y. M. C. A. athletic rooms that can out on the gloves with him. If that fellow looks with Habbit he'll think lightning struck him. Habbit's a quiet man, but terrible when aroused."

Presently the bad man snatched Habbit's paper out of his hand and threw it out of the window.

"Now watch Habbit do him up," whispered the druggist gleefully.

The great amateur rose quickly and said, "I am going to give you a good thrashing, and don't say I didn't warn you."

Then he led with his famous upper cut for the bad man's jaw. The bad man ducked like a wild duck when you shoot at him; then he jumped about four feet high and kicked Habbit on the ear with a number 10 boot. Then he hit Habbit five times on the nose, jammed him down in the corner and bit a piece out of his ear, tore his coat down the back and gave him four or five punches below the belt and then dragged the athlete down the aisle of the car onto the platform and bumped his head for a while on the brake and then threw him off the car and jumped off after him.

As the car rounded the curve, the passengers looked and saw the bad man sitting on Habbit and filling his mouth with sand.

BEAUMONT AND ITS SALT WATER LOCKS

Beaumont, through its morning paper, has been stirring up considerable agitation lately regarding a new set of salt water locks to be placed near Sabine. We hope the public in general and shippers in particular have not taken these editorials and news comment with anything approaching seriousness.

Just why Beaumont desires to fasten this menace to navigation upon Port Arthur is beyond our comprehension. That it is a menace to navigation goes without saying. Most shippers agree upon that point. Beaumont recognizes the seriousness of it but the rice men are apparently as influential as the shipping interests—hence the locks. Now in order to satisfy the two conflicting interests, Beaumont is trying to slip the locks below Sabine where Port Arthur will suffer as much from them as does Beaumont. But Port Arthur has no intention of walking into any such trap.

The locks are generally considered a farce—always have been and probably always will be. We have never, for the life of us, understood how locks would keep the salt in the gulf from backing up to Beaumont if it was so inclined. It is our understanding that about as much of it backs up through Lake Sabine as it does up the canal. That being the case how does Beaumont expect to care for this phase? Do they intend building locks across the head of the lake where the Neches and the Sabine empties into it? The project would be just as reasonable as the locks in the canal. And if the locks are supposed to protect the rice interests why place them down at Sabine? There are no rice lands down there or anywhere around Port Arthur. If Beaumont really wanted to care for their own interests without saddling a heavy expense upon the whole community why don't they place the locks in the Neches river where they have a chance to do some good? Certainly there are no rice lands to protect on the canal. Port Arthur is not interested in salt water locks. Port Arthur is a shipping center—not a rice center.

We are also interested in knowing how they would finance a new set of locks. We doubt if the navigation district would, or could do it. A bond issue then is the only possibility. And would they ask Port Arthur to pay part of the expense? They would if they could get away with it. But they can't. And that's that.

There are 36 less churches on Manhattan Island than there were 25 years ago. A church census expert says so and he must have correct dope in his possession. There are 8,000 less saloons on Manhattan Island than there was 25 years ago. The federal collector of internal revenue has the correct dope and he knows.

ROMANCE OF PETROLEUM

Miss Lucy Aldrich, who is said to have been captured by Chinese brigands and held for ransom, traveled in care of the Standard Oil company. She is the daughter of the late Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island for 30 years republican boss of the American senate and asserted by his political opponents to have been the legislative spokesman of the Standard.

Nelson W. Aldrich, when he died, left a fortune of $30,000,000, with an estimated annual income of $1,500,000, divided in equal parts for the benefit of his eight sons and daughters. According to metropolitan newspapers, Miss Aldrich is fond of travel. She has sailed around the world four times and has visited every place of importance in the Orient as well as the Occident.

Standard Oil has a marvelous system with world-wide ramifications. There isn't a port or a city or village in the Orient where a white man has shown his face that the Standard hasn't an agent for the sale of its products. When the Standard invaded China the Chinese obtained their light from wicker candles as crude as the candles of 2,000 years before.

Now kerosene lamps are found everywhere in the homes of the Chinese and the petroleum illuminant has been a wonderful civilizer of the sons and daughters of Confucius. With the coming of kerosene began the agitation for the suppression of opium by the abrogation of the Anglo-Chinese treaty which made China the dumping ground of the opium curse manufactured from the leaves of the poppy plant by the Anglo-Indian growers.

"It's well to give the Standard some credit for some of its achievements in the so-called heathen countries of the Orient. Let there be light" is an ancient injunction. American petroleum furnished it for the Chinese and then they began to move out of the darkness.

New York has a state income tax law. This law produced a state revenue of $4,749,000 in 1923. Now the Texas lawmakers are doing their best to introduce the innovation a way down here under the Lone Star skies.

MAN OF THE PEOPLE

President Obregon of Mexico in a recent address charged that his government had been boycotted politically both by great internal and foreign material interests but was gradually overcoming all obstacles solely with popular support. He declared that neither internal nor external interests would force him to change his course.

President Obregon is for justice for the peasants or peons of Mexico.

He promises a continuation of the struggle for division of the great landed estates among small farmers and the protection of farmers against governmental, judicial and military outrages. This man of the hour of Mexico was born on a farm. He was a farmer before he became a soldier and a statesman and he looks upon the farmers' movement in Mexico as the greatest event since the Madero revolution which forced the abdication of Diaz and the downfall of the Diaz governmental policies. There is light breaking in Mexico.

New York has a state police force. These troopers guard the rural regions. In one year they arrested 11,000 persons and 91 per cent of the 11,000 were convicted by juries. New York state troopers appear to be crime smashers. They are picked men and beyond political control.

UNCLE SAM'S WARDS

Attorneys for the Sioux Indians have brought suit against the federal government for $700,000,000 for violation of treaty rights. There are 25,000,000 Indian claimants or plaintiffs and they charge that 8,000,000 acres of rich gold and timber property have been illegally taken. All this land is what is known as the Black Hills country where Custer and his riders died in their saddles in 1876. Should he win, Poor La will be known as Rich Lo. Money makes the world go round.

Joseph Guerin came to America from Belgium in 1892. He died the other day leaving behind him seven great textile plants capitalized at $7,000,000. And yet there are men who say that opportunity is dead in America. He started as a mill employee and became the owner of seven great mills. Is that opportunity or intelligent effort?

YOU AND I

GOLD

We have around four billion dollars worth of gold in the United States—gold coin and liquid bullion, not including our jewelry. Three-fourths of it is locked up in the federal reserve banks. If we had the old-time system instead of the reserve banks, controlled by the government, that three-fourths would be mostly in Wall Street's vaults.

The federal reserve system is one thing that its father, Woodrow Wilson, did thoroughly. It's cyclone-proof—stood a panic worse than any of us will ever see again, May, 1920, to July, 1922.

Economists wag their heads approvingly, stroke their whiskers, and tell us that the United States now has about half of the total amount of gold in the world.

What good is it doing us? Keeping prices up, for one thing.

If all the gold now held in America were divided evenly, there'd only be $36 for every man, woman and child. The national wealth is 60 times as much, according to latest estimates, or around $2200 million.

Everything in the nation were put on a cash basis and divided equally, there'd be about 100 million Americans saying: "Shucks! Is that all I get?"

A Wall Street banker looks up from his adding machine and says the world's supply of paper money was 10 times as much at the end of 1922 as it was a year before. Russia multiplied her banknotes 40 times, Germany 55. Enormous increases since then.

The printing presses will not run forever. Day of reckoning will come. Then the inflators will have to admit that their money never can return to par, and they'll revise its par value. The French franc will be worth a pair of about eight cents.

Before the Civil War, a southern planter had a favorite slave. The planter's son and the slave's son are now fellow-members of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches.

You can search the news until you are blind for a better illustration of the changes wrought by time, which is man's best friend and also his worst enemy. The uncertainty of time is why nothing is impossible.

Accordion Pleats Will Play Important Role in Select Summer Styles

ACCORDEONS are coming back. "Accordions are replacing ukuleles," says a news item; and accordion pleats are also the latest instruments of fashion. In the selection of summer frocks, nets, lace, pastel shades of chiffon and voile all play the role of the accordion.

One can buy these materials ready pleated by the yard at many of the department stores in an assortment of colors and combinations of colors. Sometimes black and white are combined in layers, pleated in skirt lengths and used with plain bodies of black net for the summer afternoon gown.

Dance frocks also dance to the tune of the accordion, with skirts of pleated chiffon in pastel colors attached to plain bodies of the same material. These simple dance frocks are more popular than at present than the broad skirt effects with clinging lines, as they are more summery, and allow more freedom of motion for the dancer. White, lemon and almond green are the favorite colors used for the dance frock.

The pleated sports skirt has never met with such popularity as it has this season and often it is matched with a pleated cape of finger-tip length. Dress gowns for street wear are not without their share of pleats, which often begin at the knee, giving the new flounce effect. A dress of this sort appeared recently. It was made of black silk crepe in straight lines of the knee. Skirts of applique, of several thicknesses, of chiffon in color, lavender and green, adorned the upper portion of the dress, adding a touch of brilliant color to the black which is such a popular idea at present.

Matrons who are weary of the batteau shaped necklines will be interested in the surprise bodice effects which are gaining foothold in the fashion world lately. So often the V-shaped neckline is more becoming than the round or batteau-shaped one and the surprise front reflects an interesting change.

To be just a trifle dressy, the sports-skirt with cash ends, embroidered in colors and lying in front in a draped Egyptian effect. The skirt attached at the side seams—leaving the back plain and unbelted—and rapes across the front of the jacket with wide ends lying in front.

One-piece jersey bathing suits, monogrammed in wool on the left side are among the new wrinkles in bathing attire. A pretty finish for the batteau neck is the understating bias fold of organza which ties in a bow on the left shoulder with long ends falling to the waistline. Pleated-edged ribbon is used in this same manner.

Colored voile undergarments embroidered in tiny rose-buds like the handkerchief rose-buds are as pretty and summery as they are new. Green, yellow, orchid and pink are the most effective colors for voile undergarments.

Following the Parisian fancy for combining black and brown, American designers are introducing black crepe gowns beaded in bronze beads. Worn with bronze shoes and hat the effect is bound to be stunning.

THE ATTRACTIVE HOME OF Mrs. A. T. Eddington, 2745 Procter street, was opened to a charming reception yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Eddington and Mrs. L. O. Trover entertained the members of the Eastern Star and visiting members.

The reception suite and living room were fragrant and beautiful with a profusion of sweet peas and roses, which furnished the dominant note for the decorative motif of pink and white. The delicate blossoms were clustered in vases and bowls in attractive placements about the rooms. The punch table was attractive, with lively sweet peas bunched about the bowl and the dainty sandwiches and minis accentuating the combined motif. Assisting in the dining room were Miss Oley Eddington and Mrs. Jackson.

An entertaining program was rendered during the afternoon. Little Miss Lorraine Spence gave several delightful readings, and Miss Edith Davis amused the guests with her quaint readings. Mrs. L. O. Trover rendered several charming piano selections, and Margaret and Annie Hansen delighted the guests with their piano and violin numbers. About one hundred guests called during the hours of receiving from 2 to 4 o'clock.

HOME GIRL IS MEN'S CHOICE

Pastor Reads Letters Telling Youths' Preference

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., May 17.—The old-fashioned home girl is still the favorite when it comes to a selection for wife, according to letters read from the pulpit here recently by the Rev. Walter C. Loomis, pastor of the First Methodist church. The pastor read letters from nineteen young men who wrote about the kind of girl each preferred for a wife.

One letter said: "She must put high value on the integrity of her character. She must be amiable, altruistic and home loving. A moderate and modest dresser. I would not expect to find my ideal on the dance floor."

Another specified: "In forming a contract for life much thought should be given. My vision of a wife would be one about my height, slender, chestnut hair and of excellent carriage. The wife of my dreams does not use lip stick, rouge nor any other camouflage. She must not forsake her home for bridge or scandal parties."

Another preferred one like mother. He wrote: "If I were an artist and were asked to paint a picture of an angel, it would be a blending of my mother and what I would like my wife to be. Jolly as a robin but earnest enough to fight a tiger. She must not be made up like a calicoed kewpie."

One young man in San Bernardino proved he was a trifle fussy in his selection when he wrote: "The ideal woman for a wife should have those qualifications: The voice of Melba, the talent of Paderewski, the figure of Venus, the grace of a sylph, the vivacity of a corhyce, eyes like the soft glow of a moonlight eve, an alabaster-like complexion, the virtues of a nun, the charm of Cleopatra, the meekness of Moses, the patience of Job, the forbearance of Lazarus, the zeal of a Trojan, the constancy of Caesar's wife, the capabilities of a charwoman, the nurse of Heli Green and hair of her own."

Londoners Like Fogs, Spin Some Rare Yarns

LONDON, May 17.—Londoners do not mind fogs. They revel in them. They love to talk about the foggy season. An American gentleman, who had just arrived in London, was told by one of his English friends: "This is no fog. Why, I remember one so dense I could not see the lights." The other friend said he remembered one so thick he struck a match but didn't know it was lighted until he burned his fingers. All Americans here complain about the fogs.

AGED BOTTLE OF BEER FOUND BY EXCAVATORS

SALT LAKE, May 17.—Salem made a place in the historical lineal alongside of Egypt, the home of King Tut, when workmen excavating for a new building unearthed a priceless relic of pre-Volstead days in the form of a bottle of beer, with contents intact. The find was made on the site of a former brewery, and authorities estimate it must be at least thirty-two years old. The fate of the relic has not been revealed, but contractors report a general speeding up of the excavation since the discovery.

SEASON'S WRAPS

Despite the vogue for flowing capes and fancy wraps, some of the most elegant and the most expensive coats stick to straight lines and the narrow silhouette. Many costumes on strictly tailored lines are seen.

HEARS VAMPIRE HEAD IN NOOSE

Siren Aerdaire Lures Nearest Coffee

NEW YORK, May 16.—He listened to the siren song of a woman and it lured him with his head in a noose. She bewitched him to his fate and then laughed when she saw him caught. Yet, in the end, neither had a single regret.

No, this is not an advertisement for a new novel. It is the story of a shepherd dog who took possession of a taxicab in front of city hall park, almost causing a traffic jam in Park row, and of an airhead vampire who avel the day by accomplishing what even cops failed to do.

The heroine's name is Bridget and her owner is Harry F. Waterman, newsdealer. Her victim, the hero, has been named Scotch by his new owner or no other reason than that he is back and white.

Scotch started things by taking possession of a disabled taxicab, parked while the chauffeur was telephoning or a mechanic. Even the offer of a warmed beef sandwich failed to persuade him to relinquish his squatter's rights.

He Snaps at 'Em
The dog snapped at the driver and he snapped at a traffic policeman who tried through diplomacy and through bluff to evict him. The usual crowd gathered and half a dozen reserve police cops rolled up to keep the street open.

For an hour and a half Scotch and the crowd kept them earning their money. Then Waterman remembered seeing Bridget play with the black and white shepherd early in the day and had an inspiration. The airhead as brought upon the scene. She said: "I'm sorry to see you out here."

Invitation to come on out and play. The crowd faded from the shepherd's lips and was supplanted by a silly grin.

"Aw, I don't want to," he wagged back, but there was an "I want to be chased" sound to the thumps of his tail against the drivers seat.

They All Fall For It
"Come on," insisted the stubby "newsdealer," "I need protection in all this crowd."

The you-are-so-big-and-strong motif rattled it. Scotch came out with a rush and began parading his masculine strength for the worshipful Bridget and the respectful crowd. When the taxicabman dropped a noose over Scotch's head the deceitful wretch of an airhead walked off and left him with utter unconcern.

But when Joseph Alosta, one of Waterman's newsboys, asked for the bulking shepherd and got him on promise of giving him a good home, "Bridget suddenly snarled things by kissing Scotch good-bye. Then she saw an airhead bluish and bolted for Waterman's news shack.

Scotch isn't nursing a grrouch.

Prohibition Favored By People of Chile

CHICAGO, May 17.—As far as the cause being supported by powerful political factors is concerned, Chile is on the verge of prohibition, according to Bishop William F. Oldham, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church at Buenos Aires, who recently arrived at Chicago.

"With the president of Chile an ardent prohibitionist and with the power of the Labor party behind the movement, the sentiment in favor of prohibition has grown by leaps and bounds," said Bishop Oldham. "The only obstacle now is the economic one of the disposition of their vast vineyards."

Delegations from Chile have come in the past year to California and Italy to study the possibilities of the raisin industry as a means of saving the value of the vineyards on the advent of prohibition. With the solution of this problem I believe that prohibition will be an easy matter in Chile.

"The Chilean people are studying prohibition as it is in evidence in the United States, and a great deal of information has been spread before them through the medium of the press."

Woman Sells Popcorn to Earn Money For Her 'Stolen Kiss' Suit

NEW YORK, May 17.—Eager to escape herself upon the man whom she claims kidnapped her life, Mrs. Anna Saville of Washington, D. C., began selling popcorn and peanuts on New York streets Friday in an effort to make enough money to continue her prosecution of her $100,000 suit against Leighton Taylor who says seized and kissed her when she called a taxi.

Senator Boise Penrose, one year ago.

Mrs. Saville stood on street corners with a tinny guitar, a basket of peanuts and popcorn, two large placards, "Baby, her pet Fox terrier and a big val medallion license badge, calling for warms.

"Now I'm reduced to this," Mrs. Saville said Friday. "But I am not content. If they would cease their prosecution of me I would drop the suit. But my honor demands that I see it through."

The suit she filed on February 22, 1922 against Taylor resulted from a "stolen kiss" which he forced upon her, she declared in her complaint.

Famous Oregon, Hero of War of 1898, is Going Home

Battleship to Rest Forever in Waters of Her Namesake State—Her Greatest Exploit Recounted

PORTLAND, Ore., May 17.—"Oregon," well known as the "Great White Fleet," is going home. The battleship, which was launched at the height of the brilliant naval battle which resulted in the American fleet at Santiago, may be expected here when the old battleship Oregon drops anchor in the Willamette river late in June.

For the old sea dog is coming home to stay, the gift of the United States government to the people of Oregon. The ship's career will be ended, the flash and thunder of her guns a memory, and her achievements an inspiration to the youth and age of the nation for all time.

The old Oregon served her time as one of the best ships of the great fleet, holding a position of prominence for many years. With the development of modern armament she became obsolete and for a long time has been numbered in "rotten row" at the Brooklyn Navy yard.

It was not until 1906, when the famous old battleship, and the people of Oregon, refused to swallow the evidence that their state's namesake, once an important power in the right arm of the nation, had outlived her usefulness. A cry arose "to save the Oregon."

The national government turned a deaf ear for a long time, and then came the ultimatum:

"If you want her take her and fix her up, and I can help you."

The money was not available. More agitation and appeals to Washington. Then came the word last year from Washington:

"The government will put the Oregon in commission if the state will take care of her maintenance."

Oregon Gives Money

So the last legation appropriated $150,000 as an annual sum for the Oregon's upkeep, and the vessel is being refitted, placed with her war paint and made ready for voyaging to Portland, for to put her in condition to come by her own steam would take more than one hundred dollars. It is costing the federal government over $100,000 to make her presentable to the nation.

The state will anchor her in the river in the port of Portland late in June, and there she will remain a museum of memory, a relic of grand days, an inspiration.

What did the Oregon do to merit such sentiment? Oregon did not build her. Her keel was laid by the Union Iron Works of San Francisco November 19, 1891. She was launched October 26, 1895, commissioned July 15, 1896. She cost $2,150,000 to build, carried 32 officers and 111 men, and was first commanded by Captain Albert Smith Barker.

Oregon was the second, and Oregon state's name, was humiliated into her very name. She was the first ship in the United States fleet at the outbreak of the Spanish American war, and the state of Oregon was proud of her. On March 7, 1898, Oregon was lying in Tacoma harbor, Washington, her commander, Captain Alexander H. McCornick, her commander, received orders from Secretary Long to proceed to San Francisco and coal and get ammunition. At San Francisco the Oregon was ordered to leave March 10 for Callao, Peru.

merly of the Monterey, had relieved Captain McCornick, and on the 19th the Oregon sailed for Callao. War threatened. The Oregon steamed down the coast of South America.

Wan Declared

After coming to Callao the Oregon fought her way through the Straits of Magellan in a terrific storm, encountered again in Sandy Point, Patagonia, and sailed up the eastern coast of South America. At Rio Janeiro Captain Clark learned that war had been declared on April 21, and was warned of the presence of Admiral Cervera's fleet in the vicinity of the Cape de Verde Islands. On May 26 she reached Key West, after completing a voyage of 14,700 miles around the continent in 68 days. The Oregon was ordered to join Admiral Sampson's fleet, and on June 1, 1898, took part in the blockade of Admiral Cervera's fleet in the harbor of Santiago.

On Sunday, July 3, 1898, the Massachusetts and the Svanhoe left for Guantanamo to coal. Admiral Sampson, aboard the New York, went to San Juan, for a conference with General Shafter. The Indiana, Iowa, Texas, Brooklyn, with Schley aboard, Oregon and the Gloucester, swung easily on the swells. Decks were being polished, breakfast eaten, when one of the big guns of the Iowa roared a warning and her flag fluttered: "Enemy's ships coming out."

Spanish Fleet Comes

Brought with new point, battle flags flying and guns flashing, defiance, Spanish fleet entered the harbor from the narrow channel, and faced westward the open sea. Showing the Indiana, Iowa and Texas with explosives, the Spaniards showed a clean set of teeth.

The Oregon seemed to "rise out of the sea" as a Spanish officer aboard the Christal Colon later expressed it. From behind she came, rising majestically with the Brooklyn. As she passed the Spanish ships in rapid succession, the Maria Teresa was driven ashore, blazing from stem to stern. The Almirante Oquendo, with the Oregon alone ran for the beach. At sixteen knots the Oregon then overhauled the Vizcaya and that ship turned to the shore to save her crew.

Colon Beached

"Oregon, well done," then flashed Schley from the Brooklyn. It might have been considered equivalent to an order to abandon the chase of the fastest ship in the Spanish fleet, which was far ahead. Chief Engineer Milligan, of the Oregon, descended into the stoke hole and encouraged his fighting men to greater efforts. Then, covered with grime, he sought Captain Clark on the bridge and implored him to start firing again to help the men below to keep the ship going. The Oregon opened fire with her terrible thirteen-inch guns. The Christal Colon hoisted her flag and turned toward the beach.

"Congratulations for the grand victory, thanks for your splendid assistance," it flashed Schley from the Brooklyn.

The Oregon had reached the pinnacle of time. Not a man had been killed aboard her, and her name has been known all over the world. Today, saved from the junkyard, a place has been found for her old bulk in the heart of a great state.

Kentucky produces a big tobacco crop. You can put that in your pipe and smoke it.

BERLIN AIDS HER VICTIMS OF WAR

Victor Nations Could Take Lessons, Claim

BERLIN, May 17.—Germany is slowly closing her soldier hospitals. Only about 75 of the original wounded soldiers, used at the end of the war for her soldier wounded are now being operated as such and plans are underway to close four within a few weeks.

Germany—defeated in the world war—has taken care of her wounded soldiers and the survivors of her soldier dead as probably no other nation in the war. According to complete figures Germany lost 1,846,233 killed in the war and 4,217,544 were wounded.

During the war Germany began the task of pensioning officers and taking care of wounded and survivors of soldier dead and at the end of the war a complete governmental branch was established with thousands of employees for the purpose of settling claims. Within a short time the cases of 1,537,000 wounded were settled as well as 1,945,000 cases of survivors of soldier dead—including 533,000 widows, 154,000 half orphans, 58,000 full orphans, 38,000 aged parents, and 102,000 widowed or widowered parents.

Besides the new pensions granted officers and the outlay for wounded and surviving relatives, the government continued paying pensions to 2,200,000 invalids and 16,000 surviving relatives on the lists at the outbreak of the war.

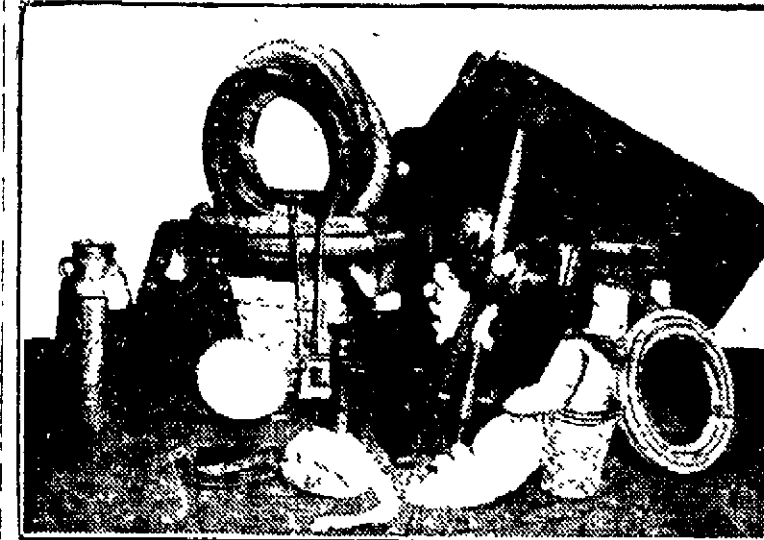

After the war Germany undertook the task of caring her wounded—invalids, and men able to do their work. On October 1, 1919, one thousand of her invalids were in use throughout Germany. Now only 75 are maintained, whereas 23 are for permanently disabled or men for long periods of time. Invalids are maintained for long periods of time, and in some cases, in 1921, a total of 22,000 cases were offered and 11,500 in 1922.

EUROPE 'SHORT' 25,000,000 MEN

So That Number of Women Must Go Husbandless

BERLIN, May 17.—Twenty five million women in Europe must go husbandless to their graves.

These simply aren't enough men to go around. The World War caused a shortage of 25,000,000 men, leaving a surplus of that number of women—unless laziness is introduced—must face the battle of life without a male companion.

According to the reports of the German statistics office, in 1913 Europe, while containing 600,000,000 inhabitants had a surplus of 9,500,000 women. The total population has since increased to 475,000,000 people with a surplus of 25,000,000 women.

Thus before the war there were 100,000 women to every 100,000 men, while at the time of 1911 women to every 100,000 men. Before the war the surplus consisted to a large extent of old women—especially widows, while now the surplus is largely made up of young unmarried able women.

Russia shows the greatest increase of population over any other country. Next comes Germany with an increase from 1907 to 1919. Austria shows an increase from 1907 to 1919. The only country in a large shooting, a constantly decreasing one. In 1919, where the women surplus dropped from 1,029 to 1,670 to every thousand men.

SEATTLE, May 17.—The SS. President Lincoln, the Admiral, broke a record by crossing the Pacific in 102 days, five hours and ten minutes. The ship was commanded by Captain G. W. Brown, and was the fastest ship to cross the Pacific in 102 days, five hours and ten minutes.

City of Dead is Found

On Site of Bordeaux

PARIS, May 17.—Archaeologists are puzzled by the discovery near Bordeaux of a buried cemetery containing several hundred tombs, dating from the sixth or seventh century, which would indicate that there was a fairly large city in that region of which no mention is made in histories. The tombs were about eight feet under the surface. In some of the tombs there were pieces of pottery and fragments of Roman design, as well as gold rings, pendants and filigree. The tombs themselves were of stone. Of the city nothing remains except its dead.

SOVIET CLAIMS MORALS BETTER

Semascho Reports Progress Against Moonshine

MOSCOW, May 17.—Russian morality has been improved by the Revolution, according to Commissary Semaschko, of the Health Department of the Russian Republic.

"Anyone who knew Russia before the revolution and afterward will admit that matters are better," said Semaschko. "It is true that prostitution, which disappeared entirely a short time after the revolution, has returned to a degree, owing to unemployment, but we know that the number of girls now walking the streets is less than 200 in Moscow, where formerly there were thousands.
The danger lies in the secret houses of which unfortunately there are some in Moscow. Our police are battling hard against them and the owners of such houses (among whom there are many of the former wealthy classes) are sentenced to imprisonment and sometimes banishment from Moscow."

"Our work is more directed to help these girls by finding them lodgings and work. We erected many working schools where they are being skilled for suitable work."

Semaschko also stated that the police and health departments were making headway in their fight against "Samogonka," or high-voltage moonshine. This stuff runs from 40 to 50 per cent alcohol. The police recently released the new distilled fruit liquors, who contain 20 per cent of alcohol, and hope to educate the public to drink these instead of moonshine. It was explained that the average Russian formerly got drunk at least once a week—very drunk—in fact, and is therefore a good patron of bootleggers and does a lot of distilling himself.
